LINES

Written on the Anniversary of Mrs. Sarah Luckett, who died August 11th, 1866.

BY LINNET.

She resteth now, and the quiet heart
Will never again know pain;
She lieth low, for the reaper, Death,
Has gathered the golden grain.
She heard his solemn and warning tread,
And, ripe for Heaven, bowed down her head.

She sacrificed for the light of truth
The faith of her childhood's days—
All earthly ties and all human hopes,
The wealth of the world, its praise—
And deemed the offering incomplete,
Till life was laid at her Master's feet.

She resteth now, and the blessed thought
Will tenderly dry the tears
That oft may rise from our lonely hearts
For her in the coming years.
We know not now, but we yet may know
How great the mercy that tries us so.

We fix our hearts on the things of earth,
They pass like the fleeting waves:
Our treasures fade, and they leave us naught
To love but their silent graves.
We learn at last to what fragile things
The human heart in its weakness clings.

Then stretching forth, like a weary child,
Our hands to the port of rest,
And looking up with a longing gaze
To Him who can aid us best,
We journey onward, and hope to see
The friends we love in eternity.

MacSHANE IN WASHINGTON.

LETTER NUMBER EIGHT.

HON. THADDEUS STEVENS.

This distinguished gentleman, who furnishes the brains for the Rump, deserves something more than an ordinary notice. He is the "Great Commoner" in a body of very common men—the man of "iron will" where so many depend on their brass—the great embodiment of the disembodied Congress, which now shows only a Rump.

Thaddeus Stevens was born in Vermont, emigrated to Pennsylvania at an early age, and settled at Gettysburg, where he taught school and studied law. About 1834, if memory serves me, he was elected to the State Legislature. He was soon distinguished for his thrilling eloquence and unequalled power of invective.

Prominent in his legislative career was his bold and persistent efforts in favor of a general system of education. This affords the bright spot in his career—the only measure upon which he can venture on posterity with safety to his good name. Apart from this, his declamatory powers were such as to render him an invaluable leader for a minority, or attacking party.

Ritner was elected Governor in 1835, the democrats having divided on Wolff and Muhlenburg. The same causes that elected an Anti-Masonic (that was the name of our opponents then) Governor, gave the same party a majority in the Legislature. Thus placed in power, Stevens appears in a new role, as the leader and mouthpiece of the new State administration. Here his talents were tried, and here he—failed.

His first measure was to reveal the secrets of Free Masonry. He had sought initiation into the sanctum of the "brethren of the mystic tie," but as he labored under the physical defect of a club foot, he could not work, so he was rejected. Eternal war against the "blood-stained order" (as he called it) was the consequence.

He got an Investigating Committee, with himself as its chairman—something like his present Reconstruction Committee—which constituted itself a Star Chamber, and in mid-winter hauled every Free Mason of prominence to Harrisburg to testify as to the secrets of Masonry. The hardships endured by these citizens can be better appreciated when it is understood that at this time we had no railroads to Harrisburg, and the unfortunate Masons had to reach that place through the snow-drifts as best they could.

Stevens' warfare upon the Free Masons was singularly like his present warfare upon the South. His theory and aim then was to render Masonry odious—to confiscate the property of the lodges, and to prevent Masons from voting and holding office! But the whole thing proved, as every man not blinded by passion saw it would prove, a miserable abortion—a Quixotic adventure that only brought ridicule upon the "drill sergeant," as Stevens was then called, and his friends. Thus failed his first great measure!

His next was equally unsuccessful, and much more disastrous. The United States Bank had been shorn of its corrupting power by General Jackson—Congress had refused to renew its charter, and the "monster," as it was called, was considered as dead. Stevens, by reaching the pockets of certain members of the Legislature, galvanized the defunct institution into a new existence as the United Staes Bank of Pennsylvania. Sudden fortunes were made by those in the "ring," and after a short, spasmodic existence, the Bank collapsed, beggaring thousands of widows and orphans, whose all was deposited in its vaults. And while many legislators increased their pile hugely, Nick Biddle, its President, was compelled to retreat to Andalusia, where, loathed and detested, he ended his wretched existence.

In 1836 delegates were elected to amend the Constitution of Pennsylvania, and Stevens was chosen from Adams county. One of the amendments was the incorporation of the word "WHITE" in the new Constitution, which Stevens opposed with all the bitterness of his nature. Nay, such was his hostility to the word white, that when the Constitution came to be signed by its framers, he refused to put his name to it. And while the name of every other delegate stands recorded with the Constitution, the name of Thaddeus Stevens is not there.

In 1838 the Anti-Masons renominated Gov. Ritner, while David R. Porter was placed in nomination by the Democrats. This was the most bitter and virulent campaign ever known to the people of Pennsylvania. Stevens was appointed Canal Commissioner, and determined, by the force of the immense power yielded by the Board, to elect Ritner. Fraud and corruption ran riot, but it did not avail, for Porter was elected by some 10,000 majority. Counselled by Stevens, the leaders of the Anti-Masonic party determined not to submit to the will of the majority.

I furnish you with an original letter of Thaddeus Stevens, written at this time, which has "never before been published." You can retain it for inspection by the curious. The Democrats may want to see the autograph of the greatest revolutionist this country ever produced, and the Radicals can have a sight of a thirty year old letter of their "Great Commoner":

HARRISBURG, Oct. 29, 1838.

Dear Sir—We have not been outvoted but outcheated. We will take all the patronage from the Governor and protect our friends. We have determined to contest the Governor's election. Pray ascertain all the fraudulent and irregular cases of election in your county. Petitions will be sent to all the counties for our friends to sign to investigate, and if we get a fair Committee, I have no doubt we can vacate the election. Gov. Ritner has received 128 or 4 thousand votes, and I am sure that is 10,000 majority of all the votes actually polled. False returns have done the rest. I wish you could be here on the 10th of next month, when we wish a consultation of our leading friends.

Your friend, THADDEUS STEVENS.

At the same time the celebrated Anti-Masonic circular was issued broadcast over the State, urging the faithful to "treat the election as if it had never taken place, and, in that attitude, calmly abide the result." It was apparent to every thinking man that treason was on foot, and the meeting of the Legislature developed its extent and character.

The Legislature convened on the 10th of December, 1838. The minority return judges of Philadelphia had refused to meet with the majority, but met clandestinely and gave the certificate of return to the Stevens' members. This made their number 52, instead of 42, their real force. The democrats had 48 without Philadelphia, and 58 with it. The democratic members from Philadelphia had been elected according to the returns, admitted by all to be legal, by over 1,000 majority.

The plan of the traitors was to secure the organization of the House, (they had the Senate,) and then the success of their treason was sure. Accordingly, Ritner's Secretary read the names of the defeated members from Philadelphia, who came forward to be sworn. This the democrats resisted, and with the legally elected members from Philadelphia, proceeded to organize the House by electing Hopkins, of Washington, Speaker, while the Stevens' men elected Cunningham, of Mercer, Speaker of the Rump.

This was the emergency Stevens had anticipated and provided for. An insurrection was declared to exist—the military were called out on a requisition, and large military supplies were demanded, prominent among which was the article of buckshot, which gave its name to the struggle, and which has since been known as the "Buckshot war."

The democrats adopted the expedient of their forefathers of the revolution, and appointed a "Committee of Safety," in view of the apparent cessation of the functions of Government, of which Joseph Newbold, of Philadelphia, was President.

These were dark days, indeed, for Pennsylvania. The most gloomy forebodings pervaded the public mind. That the streets of our capitol should be encrimsoned with the blood of our people seemed imminent. But the "sober second thought of the people" came to the rescue. The awful perils of the hour induced thought—cool, dispassionate reflection. A number of the Anti-Masons, who had been deluded into Stevens' scheme, began to report their mistake.

One of these, Montelius, of Union, sought an interview with Stevens and frankly told him that his conscience would no longer permit him to hold out against the legal organization of the House. "Throw conscience to the devil," was the characteristic reply of the arch-traitor, as he passed his victim with a scowl.

Strohm, of Lancaster, an honest and conservative member of the same party, refused longer to bind himself to the subversion of the government. And while the more honest of the Anti-Masons were becoming disgusted and alarmed at the treason to which they had been made a party, Stevens had to contend with an element still more dangerous to his schemes.

The PEOPLE began to assemble around the capitol, and while no violence, not even a menace, betrayed their purpose, there was a determination in their looks, a seriousness in their bearing, which appalled the leaders of the concocted treason. And shortly afterwards, on the occasion of some disturbance, Stevens and one or two of his co-conspirators made their escape by an ignoble leap from the back window of the chamber.

He concealed himself in the shrubbery of the capitol grounds until a late hour. One of his confreres sought the same retreat, when Stevens thinking him one of the avengers, implored most piteously for mercy, when his friend informed him that he himself was a fugitive from the same power. How true is it that "The wicked flee when no one pursueth."

This was the end of the troubles. The Stevens House dissolved itself, were received into the regular House, and law and order resumed their sway. The only exception to this was Stevens himself. He refused, and withdrew, declaring himself the legal House; but his ambitious hopes were blasted, and he retired from politics for a time, brooding on the ignomy of his defeat.

But he was "played out" in Adams county. He was used up with his political friends, and even his party was running down from a majority to a minority party in that county. He removed to Lancaster, and for several years we heard little of him outside of his profession. LikeMica wber, he was waiting for "something to turn up," and something did turn up.

The Know-Nothing party, an organization destined to galvanize so many putrid bodies into new existence, became an institution in the land. Stevens, who had outgrown his horrors of secret societies, "went in." Nor was his cloven foot any impediment—the Satanic semblance only made him more popular with these Knights of the Night. This lever soon raised him into notice again, and he was elected to Congress—a position which he has held until the present time.

In Congress the same bold, vindictive and unscrupulous course that marked his early legislative career, continues to distinguish him. And as he was then so is he now—THE LEADER. Though the power of his early eloquence has failed, he hurls at his opponents and his refractory friends the same bitter invective, the same burning irony, as in his palmist days. He always commands attention when he speaks, for, though few love him, all fear him. When he rises in debate, his best description is that given by Milton to Satan:

Their dread commander, he above the rest
In shape and gesture proudly eminent,
Stood like a tower; his form had not yet lost
All its original brightness, nor appeared
Less than archangel ruined; but his face
Deep scars of thunder had entrenched, and care
Sat on his faded cheek, but under brows
Of dauntless courage and considerate pride,
Waiting reverge, cruel his eye, but cast
Signs of remorse and passion to behold
The fellows of his crime, the followers rather.

He differed from Lincoln and his friends in the war. They contended it was for the preservation of the Union—he that it was for the subjugation of the South. During the war he was in a minority—now he has Congress with him, and if the people elect members of Congress holding the Lincoln theory, he is opposed to admitting them. In short, as in 1838, so in 1867, having obtained power, he is in favor of retaining it at all hazards! Whether he will be able to revolutionize the country, or whether, as in the Buckshot war, it will prove an abortion, time will show.

In private life Mr. Stevens is a contradiction. He has never made a profession of religion, yet he is a model of temperate living. He has never been married, and has no ties to connect him with the future of his country, which may account for his recklessness as to her future interests. He is about 70 years of age, and his greatest avowed regret is that he cannot live long enough to sufficiently punish the whites of the South.

He differs somewhat from Greeley and Gerrit Smith. They appear to be governed by a spirit of philanthropy—he is controlled by misanthropy. They love the negro—he does not, (with perhaps a single exception,) but he hates the whites.

He is a born Revolutionist. Had he lived in France at the time of the French Revolution, Robespierre would have been but a secondary character, and Stevens would have "borne away the palm."

I have taken considerable space to this sketch of Mr. Stevens, as he is just now the greatest power in the country. The Rump Congress, representing only a portion of the country but making laws for the whole, has absorbed the powers of the Executive and Judiciary Departments of the Government, and Thaddeus Stevens controls the Rump Congress.

MACSHANE.

IN SEASON.—While Helmbold's advertising agent was putting up his mammoth poster in New Haven, Conn., on a large board near a bookstore, a richly dressed young lady, evidently one of the "shoddy," seeing the advertisement, and supposing it to be a circus or concert, stepped into a bookstore where tickets are usually sold to such encertainments, and asked the clerk for "Two tickets to Helmbold's Buchu." Of course the polite clerk explained the matter as well as possible, and the lady retired amid the suppressed laughter of several "bloods" who were present.

DOBBS AND HIS DIFFICULTIES.

I am no novelist, and have never aspired to be, but I claim to be something of a politician.

If there is a loyal man I believe I am one. I made great sacrifices during the war for my country. I did not go to war because I could not. My private affairs would not permit it. But if one person in the United States of America kept up a more galling fire in the rear than any other one I am the man. I have been the mark of the Copperheads. And besides it has cost me much domestic trouble.

George Washington Harrison Socrates Clay Dobbs, (that's me) unfortunately married one Amy Amanda Maria Louisa Scraggs, and as old Scraggs was a Democrat, my Amy has been a follower of the old rebel sympathising Copperheaded Butternut, and at times the climate at "Dobbs' Cottage" became somewhat tropical. But I have borne it all like a Christian.

Old Scraggs has always been too fast for me in argument, but when he came visiting and I held family prayer and got the old reprobate upon his knees I had all the say, and you better believe I poured grape and canister into Fort Sumter. Amy was a beautiful girl, and I married her because I loved her. Some said I married her for "Dobbs' Cottage," but that is a copperhead lie. It is true, her father made us a present of the farm and cottage, but what of that? It was his daughter, and she had a right to it. I was master of the situation until recently. This suffrage question involved me in a very serious difficulty. I had taken special pains to tantalize Amy about copperheads, butternuts and sympathisers, but when this suffrage question came up she gave me hark upon the negro equality question.

I fended the best I could, but found the position was getting untenable, and so I declared straight for equality and went at it upon general equality principles.

I went my whole length and declared for outright equality.

Our people had got patriotic and had admitted the Negroes into the public schools, and I had the honor of moving first in that important step.

One evening a few weeks ago I came home and Amy and I had a set-to on the equality question. The children had been at school that day, and each had a negro next to them. I saw Amy was working her wits, the result of which was an announcement that if the children had to associate with negroes, I should too.

I regarded the threat as an idle boast, and thought no more of it.

A few days after this I notified her that General —— and his wife would dine with us. Her eyes sparkled. I knew there was mischief brewing, but I could not forsee it.

I advised her that the General, his wife and I would be at the cottage at one. And sure enough we were.

And Amy was prepared for us. She had prepared an excellent dinner, and met us at the door to welcome us, announcing at the same time that dinner was ready.

So soon as we were prepared she led the way to the dining room, and to my surprise had spread a large table, and had a saucy old negro by the name of Crow, with his wife and the two children that were seated next to our children at school already at the table. She apologized for her haste in seating her first guests, assuming that she had concluded we were not coming, and then proceeded to formally introduce old Crow and the Crow family generally to the General and wife as brother Crow, sister Crow, master Crow, and little miss Crow.

I felt a good deal like crowing some myself. My legs began to show unmistakable signs of elasticity. I felt as if I could heave out any six negroes in the neighborhood. But I fully comprehended the nature of the situation. The General's wife was about to explode. The General, although an earnest Radical, could not suppress his olfactory from becoming slightly elevated. My Amy was extremely polite, and chatted away apparently in one of her happiest moods. Old Crow sat back with his thumbs in the armholes of his dilapidated old vest, whilst his wife, with folded arms, was assuming an air of maiden innocence.

Amy handled the General a seat by the wench, which filled up that side of the table, and hurriedly seated the General's wife by old gums and ivory. Then gathering up the children seated them beside their school fellows, after which she took her seat at the head of the table, and requested me to be seated at the further end to wait upon the guests.

Up to this time I had managed well. But the General's wife arose and remarked that she did not intend to bear the insult further. At this the General flew into a passion, and accused me of purposely arranging an insult. I protested, and accused Amy, and as I did so old Scraggs stepped in. The General remarked, "you old butternut, you are at the bottom of this." My Amy reminded him that that was her home, and no one should insult her father there, and ordered him to leave.

The General called her a dirty huzzy for insulting his wife, and at this old Scraggs hit him with the knot end of a butternut limb. I sprang between them to protect my guest, when old Crow placed the General and I upon an equality. In the melee the wench assailed the Gen[eral]'s wife and the fight became gener[al]. Amy in the meantime expostulating a[nd] counselling peace.

Finally we all succeeded in resuming o[ur] perpendicular positions but Crow, w[ho] was just then the special object of [the] charge from the General.

Amy was playing Pocahontas, by lea[ning] over the old carcass, and succeeded [in] causing the General to retreat.

She then placed her arms around hi[m] and attempted to raise him. I blew u[p]. Making a charge upon old manhood, [I] ruined a calf-skin.

Mrs. Crow patted me on the back wi[th] a chair, whilst the young Crows set up [a] regular down South jubilee.

But I cleaned them out. I did, indeed. The last words I heard from old Cro[w] were, "You're no gemman."

Scraggs enjoyed it. Amy was exceedingly sorry, and could not comprehend what had caused the row. The General and his wife were off in a flurry.

And I—I was the maddest and mutest Radical in the State.

I pursued after the General to apologize and explain, and run into old Crow. He gave me an exhibition of his "manhood," and seeing I was flanked, I wheeled to retreat. In my haste I encountered the wench and over we went.

I partially recovered and started on all fours, when old Crow came to my assistance, and by an attack upon the rear enabled me to make the fastest time on record.

As I came down the pavement I discovered a waving handkerchief. It was Amy's.

Scraggs had assumed a belligerent position, and as I passed him, set Crow [to] trotting in the opposite direction. He made good time, but nothing in comparison to what I had done.

Since which time I have been dubbed "Dexter" by Amy and her father, and [on] the least intimation that I intend to vote the Radical ticket, Amy insists upon read[ing] her story of the race between Manhood and Radical. I have partially succeeded in reconciling the General and his wife, but my suggestion to play the same joke on Scraggs and Amy, at their house, brought to the General's mind such a vivid recollection of old Crow's muscular powers that he concluded that Negro equality would answer for electioneering [pur]poses, but was a decidedly dangerous [ex]periment by way of practical jokes. I [am] too.—Ohio Statesman.

REMARKABLE STORY.—In the Art Department at Paris, there is on [ex]hibition some gold embroidery which [has] universal admiration. The richness of the material and the elegance of the workmanship is unequalled. It is from an American lady. Her husband is a New York publisher. He lives in great style. He has his fine house, dashing teams, and is emphatically fast. His wife is not allowed to dwell under his roof. She is an elegantly accomplished lady, on whose fame not a breath of suspicion has rested. But deserted, and with no provision made for her maintenance, she resolved to turn her accomplishments to a good account. This lady called on Mme. Demorest and told her story—exhibited her skill, and found full employment and fair compensation. For five years she has earned a comfortable subsistance, and is esteemed by all who know her. Kings and Queens bend over her handy work. By little and little her story has leaked out and great interest is attached to it. With her needle and patient endurance she will make a name in the world.—New York Gazette.

STORY WITH A MORAL.—When General Jackson was moving on to strike McClellan's flank on the Chickahominy, he came to a stream which had no bridge, and could not be crossed without one. The General had brought with him from the Valley a rough, uneducated man, full of energy, who had served him in emergencies, and in whom he had the utmost confidence. He called this man and told him that stream must be bridged immediately; the regular engineers were also advised of the fact. In a short time the rough carpenter and the polished men of science were at the stream; the former had his plan, the latter theirs; he wished to go at the work at once without drawings, but they objected until they could perfect the plans on paper. The engineers retired to their tent to perfect a paper bridge; the carpenter took his men and went to work at once to make a real one. In a very short time he appeared at the General's tent, and reported briefly, thus: "General, that bridge is done, but them pictures ain't come yet." This story has a moral that all our readers can discover.

OLDEST TREE IN THE WORLD.—The cypress of Somna, in Lombardy, Italy, is perhaps the oldest tree on record. It was known to be in existence in the time of Julius Cæser, 42 years before Christ, and is therefore more than 1,900 years old. It is 105 feet high and 20 in circumference at one foot from the ground. Napoleon, when laying down the plan for his great road over the Simplon, a portion of the Alps, diverged from a straight line to avoid injuring this tree. The honor of superior antiquity, however, is claimed by some in behalf of the immense and valuable trees in Calaveras county, California, which is supposed from the number of concentric circles in the trunk to be 2,265 years old.

CHANGE OF BASE.

After the democratic nominations had en made, a few rotten radicals at Johnsn undertook the task of getting up a ttle disaffection among the democrats, in der to bring "grist to their own mill." ccordingly communications, pretending come from dissatisfied democrats, were blished in the "By Authority" radical gan at Johnstown, and copied into the mi-official organ at Ebensburg. These mmunications were as democratic as a dical could make them—the word "copperhead" did not occur once—but still ey wanted the ring of the true demoatic metal.

For instance, while studiously avoiding e slang phrase "copperhead," THOMAS 'BREEN and JOHN THOMAS are called eatures—a term that no democrat could ply to either of these gentlemen. It is ly that party which scorns the industris mechanic that could use such terms. r, M'Breen, against his will, was placed nomination at the request of the "Wilore" and other country delegates, and uld not serve; and these men, after mplaining that a radical was appointed the vacancy, are working with that dical to defeat the democratic ticket. e. M'Breen and his friends will appreate this scurrilous attack.

John Thomas is a laborious, self-edu ated artizan. No decent man of any arty will deny either his honesty or caacity. And those who think to defeat prightminded men, like Mr. Thom- [illegible] them creatures, will find ist" worsted in the effort.

Tribune was delighted with the a "muss" that would give its portion of the loves and fishes. ated, ex cathedra, that the rads. ould make no nomination, and between m and the disaffected democrats would ake a nice thing of it. The Tribune felt ort of good.

But the "power behind the throne" did ot turn out to be "greater than the rone" itself. The Radical County Comittee have called the Radical Convention ogether—not to made terms with democrats—not to recommend the support of olunteer democrats—not to attempt any "bargain and sale"—but to nominate a adical county ticket. Thus ends the agitaion, and leaves the democrats to defeat a icket of negro loving, Union hating radials to the tune of some thousand majority.

MR. HENRY O'HARA.

The Radical papers seem to have taken sudden liking to Mr. O'Hara, although ey have heretofore denounced him, and hose who thought with him, as "traitors," "copperheads," &c. Mr. O'Hara understands these gentlemen, and knows as well as they do what their object is.

Mr. O'Hara is an upright citizen—an onest man. He is, besides, fully qualified for the position of Director of the Poor, and had he been the choice of the Convention every true democrat would at once have rallied to his support. And in that case, these radical friends of his would still call him traitor and copperhead, and pitch in for somebody else to defeat the ticket. It is not love for Mr. O'Hara they have—it is hate for the democratic ticket.

Some half dozen names were before the Convention for Poor Director—all of them good democrats, all competent men. The majority fell upon Mr. Thomas. Had it fallen upon another, Mr. Thomas and his friends would have supported him cheerfully, and Mr. O'Hara, as a good democrat, will do precisely the same.

The fact of Mr. O'Hara not being nominated is no proof against either his fitness or his worth. The fact that Munster township had the office for six out of twelve years may have contributed to the result. But it is funny enough to see the radicals breaking their hearts about an office not worth more than $60 per year.

HON. WM. M. RANDALL has been renominated for State Senator in the Schuylkill district, over Hon. B. Reilly. The vote stood: Randall 136, Reilly 59.

In the Sacred Name of Union it has Perpetuated Disunion.

This charge we fearlessly make against the Radical party. When Abolitionism had brought about a civil war, all parties in the North sustained the government in putting down the rebellion, because all parties in the North were assured this would restore the Union.

The rebellion has been put down. It is some two years and a half since the rebels surrendered and disbanded their armies on the only terms required of them—laying down their arms and renewing their allegiance to the Constitution and laws. This they have done, and yet we are as far from having a Union restored now as we were then. The South, instead of being allowed to govern itself, and compelled to do so at its own expense, is now governed by a standing army at the expense of the North, And thus we are ground to the earth with taxes to support sovereign States that are able and willing to support themselves, if they were allowed to do so. And the Union never will be restored so long as the radicals are in power! Will not the people think of these things?

GEN. GRANT.—The following from the New York World takes the view pretty generally held by the Democratic press in relation to Gen. Grant and the Presidency:

General Grant is under a moral necessity of respecting the great renown of his past services. It is beneath him to play any common part in vulgar politics. The Presidency can be nothing to him; he has a more valuable office. But if, in the hands of Providence, he could be an instrument for tranquilizing the country, that is an honor for which he could afford to sacrifice ease, congenial pursuits, and the possibility of still greater fame as a soldier. God forbid that he should descend into the arena of party contests. If he cannot be elected President without such a descent, he can do no good in the Presidency. Our torn, lacerated, exasperated country needs soothing, needs pacification, needs oil on the troubled waters, which still toss and dash after the recent tempest. We would no more have General Grant become a party politician than if he had lived in Washington's time, we would have wished him to give and return party blows. As Washington was elected and re-elected on the strength of his character and services, without pledges either asked or given, we trust that Gen. Grant will be elected, if at all, in the same way and with the same generous confidence. Having restored the authority of the government, we hope that he may add the highest civic to the highest military fame by restoring long lost cordiality of feeling.

THE LATEST RUMOR IN THE CONOVER CASE.—The latest rumor is that a man named Rabe, who was arrested for frauds upon the Treasury, was for a time confined in the cells at the jail here with Sanford Conover, and he had opportunities of becoming familiar with Conover's movements, and the results of his frequent interviews with Mr. Impeacher Ashley. It appears that when the Congressman went to visit the perjurer, the latter was taken from his cell and permitted to see his visitor in a room down stairs, and the interviews lasted sometimes two or three hours. On one of these occasions it is said that Conover was busily writing, and had many papers before him when Mr. Ashley called. Going to meet his visitor he neglected to put up his papers, and Rabe had the curiosity to examine them. He found them to be certain statements which some party or parties unknown was to swear to. Their contents were briefly noted, and it is now asserted that the testimony of certain witnesses at the Surratt trial correspond exactly with the statements previously prepared by Conover in his prison cell. It is further said that the truth of this can be demonstrated most clearly.—Washington Correspondence Baltimore Sun.

ASSASSINATION OF LOPEZ.—Gen. Lopez, the traitor who betrayed Maximilian, has been assassinated. The occurrence is thus described by a letter writer: Lopez was stopping at a hotel in Puebla, where his wife spurned him from her presence. Early one morning a Mexican arrived, and familiarized himself with an hostler in a livery stable adjoining the hotel. Gen. Miguel Lopez was inquired for, but not being in, the stranger was told that the General would be at dinner. Before the dinner hour Lopez returned, and was pointed out to the stranger, who made special note of his man. When dinner was called, Lopez and his assassin occupied opposite seats at the table. After some minutes, during which time the stranger called for and drank a glass of wine, he deliberately rose, drew a concealed knife, and sprang upon Lopez and stabbed him nine times. The stranger then took his hat, and as he started to leave, said, "This is the way all traitors should be paid." No one interfered, or prevented the assassin from leaving. Thus was the blood of Maximilian, Miramon, Mejia, yes, and thousands of others avenged.

A "SPIRITUALIST" STORY.—The Boston Commonwealth has the following: "The railroad conductor with a flower in his mouth is well known to travelers on a certain line into Boston. Summer and winter one always sees a flower between his teeth, as if it grew there. It is said that many years ago the lady he was to marry died; that soon after he received a communication from her spirit that as long as he kept a flower in his mouth she would be hovering near him, and that with a constancy and fidelity almost unparalleled, for nearly twenty years he has adhered to this poetic custom."

—Two ferrymen and two passengers were carried over Niagara Falls at a late hour on Tuesday evening. Their bodies have not been recovered.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

—Captain Thomas H. O'Brien, a Fenian confined for two years in Dublin prison, has been released, and has arrived in Troy.

—A promising young man named John Gray, of New Pottsville, Chester county, died a few days ago from the effects of violent exertion in playing base ball.

—Empress Carlotta, wife of Maximilian, is in better spirits, and her mental condition has slightly improved. She knows Maximilian is dead, but fancies he died from fever.

—At one of the stations of the Union Pacific Railroad, two sacks of flour and ten barrels of ale were recently delivered. The question is what do they intend to do with so much flour.

—Three men were drowned in a mash-tub in a distillery in New York, on Monday last. One of them fell in accidentally, and the others lost their lives in attempting his rescue.

—At a pic-nic near Vicksburg, on Thursday, poison was put in the refreshments by some unknown parties. Five whites and three blacks died, and six or eight persons are not expected to survive.

—Mr. Bradley, Surratt's attorney, has been arrested and held in $2,000 bail to answer for sending Judge Fisher a note, which is construed to mean a challenge to fight a duel, although Bradley says he did not so intend it.

—A negro and white girl from Warren, Ohio, were married at Sharon, Mercer county, this State a few days ago by a Radical justice of the peace. "The world moves," exclaims a Radical organ over the occurrence, but it neglects to say which way.

—Mrs. Patrick Mahar, of Dubuque, Iowa, fell into a mineral shaft forty feet deep which had become overgrown with grass and weeds, one night a couple weeks since, and was not found until noon the following day. She received but slight injuries.

—Edward P. Weston has been matched to walk from Portland, Me., to Chicago, Ill., a distance of twelve hundred miles, in thirty consecutive days, and not to walk on Sundays, leaving but twenty-six days in which to perform the feat. The stake is $10,000.

—The forger Killian alias Rankin, when held for trial in Harrisburg for presenting a forged check at the Mechanics' Bank, coolly informed the Mayor that he could not furnish the $5,000 bail demanded unless he would take a check on the Second National Bank of Pittsburgh.

—An enterprising individual in Milwaukie sold a quantity of barreled sand and salt recently for pork, but the weather was so warm that the purchasers, unable to see why there was no leakage, examined the packages, and caused his arrest. Some $20,000 had been realized by this speculation.

—Since the "revelation," the Radical papers have said a great many hard things about Conover, but in all our exchanges we see nothing more severe than a remark of the Portland, Maine, Press, which calls the disclosures of Conover "an attempt to destroy the character (!) of Messrs. Ashley and Holt."

—It is understood that Maj. Gen. Geo. H. Thomas has been assigned to the command of the Fifth Military District, in place of Maj. Gen. Sheridan, who has been transferred to the command of Missouri, from which Maj. Gen. Hancock has been assigned to the Department of the Cumberland, in place of Gen. Thomas.

—B'anque Bey, the first Turkish Minister ever accredited to this Government, arrived in Washington Saturday night, accompanied by his secretary and attendants, and forming a retinue that attracted quite a crowd of spectators at the hotel where he is stopping. He was to be formally received by the Government on Wednesday.

—It is stated that on the death of Pope Pius IX. the goverment of France would strongly urge the election of Bishop Dupanloup, of Orleans, as his successor. Bishop Dupanloup has the reputation of being, in every respect, one of the ablest Roman Catholic bishops now living; and if elected Pope, would probably soon make his mark as one of the greatest Popes of modern times.

—The "stolid Dutch," as one of the Massachusetts Radical organs calls our people, are preparing to give Judge Williams, of Connecticut, a vigorous "set back" in October. They want a man on the Supreme Bench honest enough and conscientious enough to be governed by laws, constitutions and facts, and not to be the tool of a lot of greedy politicians.

—A New Haven German named Loughan, found his wife and five children in the street when he returned from his work last Friday, the landlord having ejected them for not paying the rent in advance. His wife made two attempts to kill herself and baby that night, but was prevented, and on Saturday Mr. Loughan had several apoplectic fits, from which he will probably not recover.

—Three men were arrested five years ago for committing a murder in Coventry, R. I., but were discharged for want of evidence. They have been again arrested, and a woman named Wood testifies that the accused had the murdered man in her cellar for a fortnight and then threw the body into the river, where it was found. She had been intimidated by them until now. The examination took place on Saturday, for trial. The murdered man's name was Andrew. The crime was committed for $16.

—Canales has raised the standard of revolt in Mexico and is operating in the neighborhood of Matamoras. This is the earliest fruit of the Escobedo butchering programme. Canales is a spirited and determined partisan leader, and is not likely to be alone in such a movement as he has commenced. If Juarez intends to build up a government in Mexico founded upon law, justice and equity, he had better take measures to convince the people of that fact, and then such movements as those of Canales will be impossible.

PHENOMENON IN IRELAND.—Rev. Patrick Malone, parish priest of Belmullet, writes to a Dublin paper about an extraordinary convulsion of nature which occurred within eleven miles of that town a few nights ago. The "side of a mountain was raised from its bed, and suddenly breaking up into huge fragments, proceeded down the inclined surface, carrying destruction in its course, until it spent its fury in the waters of the Atlantic." The portion of mountain which broke up contained an area of about forty acres, and although the elevation was not more than one foot in fifteen, the great altitude from which the subterranean current ascended accounts, he thinks, for the irresistible force which attended it. Hundreds of large fragments, some of them measuring two thousand cubic feet, are now, Mr. Malone says, to be seen thrown in on either side and strewn upon the undisturbed plane, without the appearance of water having accompanied them there. His explanation of the phenomenon is that the great drought of the preceding two months created a vacuum between the peat surface and its gravelly substratum. The heavy fall of rain being pressed into the cavity produced the eruption. Several families had a narrow escape of their lives, some persons having been carried forward a distance on the moving and breaking ground. The bog debris is scattered over the crops of several poor men, a road is blocked by the fragments, a dale closed up, and a valley created, "where nothing but a mountain appeared before."

CURIOUS CASE.—A Boston savings bank has lately had a strange case of mistaken identity. About four years ago a one-armed man called, saying he wished to draw money deposited there several years before but had lost his bank book. The treasurer asked him if he could prove his identity, and he said that he had formerly driven a cart for a well-known coal merchant in the city, and in his employ had lost his arm. The coal merchant was summoned, and at once said he recognized the man, although he was somewhat changed in appearance, and that he was all right: and signed a bond in the claimant's favor, who departed with his money. Nothing more was heard of the matter till about a month or so ago, when another one-armed man claiming the same name as the first, entered the bank with his book in his hand and demanded his deposit. He told the same story as to his identity as the first, said he had been in prison these many years, and the coal merchant was summoned to decide. At once the merchant said that before he had been deceived, that the other man was an impostor, but this was the right man, and with the utmost good nature paid the bond he had signed four years before; and a second time the money was paid. The explanation probably is that both these one-armed men had been in the same prison together, had talked and planned together, and together had been successful in their swindle.

A GREAT NATURAL CURIOSITY.—The Sentinel, published at Jacksonville, Oregon, of the 12th ult., says: "Several of our citizens returned last week from a visit to the great sunken lake, situated in Cascade Mountains, about seventy-five miles northeast of Jacksonville. This lake rivals the famous valley of Sinbad, the Sailor. It is thought to average 2,000 feet down to the water, all around. The walls are almost perpendicular, running down into the water, and leaving no beach. The depth of the water is unknown, and its surface is smooth and unruffled, as it lies so far below the surface of the mountain that the air currents do not affect it. Its length is estimated at twelve miles, and its breadth at ten.

"No living man ever has, probably ever will be able to reach the water's edge. It lies silent, still, and mysterious in the bosom of the "everlasting hills," like a huge well, scooped out by the hands of the giant genii of the mountains, in unknown ages gone by, and around it the primeval forests, watch and ward are keeping. The visiting party fired a rifle several times into the water, at an angle of forty-five degrees, and were able to note several seconds of time from the report of the gun until the ball struck the water. Such seems incredible, but is vouched for by some of our most reliable citizens. The lake is, certainly, a most remarkable curiosity."

A GOOD EXAMPLE.—An exchange paper thus records the good example of a prominent Democrat, in the proper dissemination of Democratic principles: "One of our subscribers came to our office one day last week and renewed his subscription for another year. He then ordered a copy of the paper to be sent to his two brothers and one to his workman, and paid for them in advance, remarking that "these were times when men ought to read the truth." We record this example of an humble but earnest Democrat with pleasure. It is worthy to be followed by others. Let the people read sound papers and understand fully the aim and object of the Jacobin leaders, and there will be a change in public opinion. Old men should encourage the young men to take and read the Democratic papers. Let them grow up with correct principles" We commend the above to the consideration of our friends in this county.

EDITORIALITIES, LOCAL AND GENERAL.—A little girl fell from a porch in Huntingdon, on Saturday week, and had her lower jaw broken.

A Howe truss bridge is to be erected over the Conemaugh river at Nineveh, Indiana county, at a cost of $6,000.

Some seventy or eighty sheep belonging to Mr. Peter Oaks, of Indiana county, have recently been killed by dogs, inside of a week's time.

The Alleghanian admits the election of Mr. John Thomas as Director of the Poor. Why not admit the election of the rest of our ticket "just as easy."

A horse thief named Levi Lowrie, took French leave of the Huntingdon jail, on Friday week, but was captured the next day and returned to his old quarters.

A Mr. Flasher, of Hill Valley, Huntingdon county, was caught in the cog wheels of a thrashing machine, on the 6th inst., and his foot and ankle was literally ground to pieces.

Calvin Cyphers, employed on the Broad Top Railroad, was caught between the bumpers of two cars, near Huntingdon, on Friday week, and so severely crushed that he died the same night.

Christian Lehman, a farmer of Richland township, this county, has on his farm a stalk of the common raspberry, which, a few weeks ago, measured 21 feet and 8 inches in length, and is still growing.

A domestic named Anne Nolan, employed in the family of Mr. W. P. Rudolph, Huntingdon, decamped on Saturday week, taking with her a quantity of clothing, etc., belonging to Mrs. R. She has been arrested and committed to jail.

An old man named Patrick Leonard died very suddenly at the Poor House, on Sunday last. He was taken ill at the dinner table, and died before medical or spiritual aid reached him. His disease is said to have had all the symptoms of Asiatic cholera.

The wearing apparel of the man Bennett, confined in the Hollidaysburg jail on the charge of having robbed the tailor shop of Jonathan Stouffer, save and except his hat and shirt, has been recognized as the property of various visitors who have called upon him.

The Leader, a temperance organ published at Hollidaysburg, after an existence of ten months, during which time the editor, John H. Keatley, Esq., has run the machine at a dead loss, has been forced to go under for want of patronage. The press and type are offered for sale.

A young son of Mr. Thomas Gray was thrown from a horse near Rochester's Mills, Indiana county, a couple of weeks since, and dragged a considerable distance, his foot having caught in the harness. His clothes were literally torn from his person and he sustained severe injuries.

The beautiful trotting mare, "Mountain Maid," once the property of Mr. Henry Gore, Johnstown, at present owned by Mr. H. S. Hitner, of Montgomery county, won a purse of $1,000 at Rochester, N. Y., week before last. Her time was 2.36, 2.33½ and 2.32 in the second, third and fourth heats.

A woman named Page and two girls named Renner, residing in Altoona, were lost on the mountain north of that place, while in quest of whortleberries, a few days since, and after wandering about all night, were met the next day on their way home (having been put on the right road) by a party of men who were seeking for them.

Wm. Johnston, of Altoona, is at present on trial before the U. S. District Court at Pittsburgh on the charge of dealing in counterfeit fractional currency. A number of highly respectable witnesses from Blair and Cambria counties, among them our townsman, Col. Wm. K. Piper, have testified to Mr. Johnston's honesty, upright dealing, etc.

The Johnstown Tribune floats at its head, in glaring capitals, the sentence from the Declaration of Independence: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal." The same paper justifies the negro government of Tennessee, by which the negroes vote, but those who have the misfortune to be born white are denied the right of suffrage. Change your motto.

The Steward of the Poor House in his letter of resignation, heretofore published, states that the action of the Convention has "probably deprived this institution of the services of a director in Johnstown." This seems to be a mistake. Mr. Orris, the worthy out-going director, resides some six or eight miles from Johnstown, and he is the nearest director to that place. The election of Mr. Thomas will leave the matter precisely as it has been in this respect.

We learn from the Johnstown Tribune that the proposed colony from that place to Eastern Kentucky is assuming shape. Twenty-eight thousand acres of land in Morgan and Wolff counties have been subscribed for, and a committee consisting of Geo. W. Osborn, Caleb Butler and James Morton, has gone to look at the country and report upon its advantages. The land is to cost fifty cents an acre, and is located near Licking river, from forty to sixty miles from Cincinnati. If the prospects are encouraging, some seventy families design emigrating and engaging in agricultural pursuits in that region.

The Johnstown Tribune is in luck. It is one of the two papers in this Congressional district paid for publishing the very important laws passed by the Rump Congress! We congratulate our contemporary, and presume that the Freeman is the other one. Accordingly we extract one of the laws, "By Authority," from the Tribune, Mainely because of its immense importance to the people of Cambria county, and which is published in two papers in every Congressional district in the United States, including the Southern Provinces, and paid for out of our taxes:

KEEP IT GOING.—The Harvest Home festival in aid of the new Catholic church in this place, which is to be held in the Town Hall on the 3d of September next, is meeting with merited encouragement, and the probabilities are that it will be a complete success. A number of attractive prizes, consisting of a valuable little mule, a fine American silver watch, a handsome black silk dress pattern, and a fresh milk Durham cow, are offered for competition, and on behalf of a Christian enterprise we solicit a liberal co-operation in the coming festival on part of all classes of our citizens. No man will be any poorer for the few dollars he may invest in so worthy a cause.

JURY COMMISSIONER.—Our advertising columns will show that John Porter, Esq., of Susquehanna Township, is a candidate for Jury Commissioner. We hope the rads will nominate him, or let him run, for notwithstanding he is a bitter radical, he is an honest man, and as well qualified by a knowledge of the people to perform his duties satisfactorily as any radical in the county.

LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.

JOHNSTOWN AUG. 19, 1867.

Dear Freeman—One of the most exciting events which has transpired here for a long time, was a foot race which came off on the old tow-path, about two miles below town, on Saturday last. The contestants were a Welshman named Davis and an Irishman named Redmond, and as the friends of either party were sanguine of the success of their man, it was presumed that the race would be very closely contested. Your correspondent repaired to the ground a few minutes before time was called, and taking a position near the "home stretch," awaited with considerable anxiety for the race to begin. Probably 2,000 persons had by this time arrived upon the ground, and had located at different points along the course, the greater number, however, remaining at the winning post. The arrangements for keeping the track clear and preserving order were of the most perfect kind, and consequently the runners had a fair field on which to display their powers of locomotion. At 5 P. M. the contestants appeared at the starting point, and the choice of position falling by toss to Redmond, they took their respective places. Davis was dressed something similar to a ring performer in a circus, the prevailing color being red; his competitor was dressed in light clothes. A few moments after five the word was given, and a fair start having been made, the contestants pulled out, but ere they had ran one-fourth the distance it became evident that Davis would win an easy victory over his opponent, as he led him the entire course from 20 to 40 yards, and coming in about 30 yards in advance, won the race. Almost every person upon the ground was deceived in the result, as it was expected that it would be a sharp run, and closely contested, whilst on the contrary Davis occupied 3 min. 24 sec. in running the half mile. Of course it was not necessary to run faster, as from the outset he had a sure thing of it, and there was no necessity to exert himself. I have been informed that both parties, whilst in training, ran the distance in less than 2. 30. The only way I can account for the discrepancy in time, is that Redmond was physically unfit to run on that day, and at present writing he is lying in a very critical condition from nervous prostration. The stake at issue was $115, but probably over $5,000 changed hands in bets, which were freely offered and taken, even after the start was made. A considerable amount of ill-feeling has been engendered by the result, between the friends of either party, as it was, of course, considered by many as a kind of national affair, and a variety of knock downs have already occurred. One of the most serious of the latter came off on Woodvale bridge yesterday evening, by which two men succeeded in coming from a wordy dispute to blows, and then damaging each other's faces in a serious manner. Excited groups were gathered at every corner yesterday talking of the result, and manifesting more feeling than they probably did since each individual enjoyed a social attack of the measles, or had his first affections nipped in the bud.

Another foot race came off later in the evening of Saturday, for a stake of $10, between two amateur runners. The course on this occasion was located on Locust street, from the Catholic to the Methodist churches. This race was a close contested one, and resulted, I believe, in favor of the winner.

The next most interesting affair last week was a temperance meeting, which was held on the Public Square, on Wednesday evening. Delegations were present from different localities, the usual number of anecdotes were rehearsed, the "rum fiend" got the regular amount of anathematising, some excellent singing was indulged in by a bevy of good and handsome lady Templars, who have "cussed a cuss" never to drink any more, and the meeting wound up by a general invitation being extended to that portion of the audience who sometimes indulge in "whiskey straight," or malt fluid, as the case may be, to step up and sign a document which set forth, expressively and elegantly, that for all time to come they wouldn't touch, taste, handle or drink any of the aforesaid stimulating beverages. Several persons signed the pledge, and the meeting adjourned to re-assemble in Ebensburg during Court week. Methinks these apostles of temperance will have a fair field to operate in when they visit your town.

A man named Thomas M'Cauley met with a very serious accident at the depot in this place on Tuesday last. He was engaged in the business of switch-tending, and on that evening an engine with a train of cars was just starting from the depot, when Mr. M'Cauley discovered that the pipe leading from the sand box to the track had by some means become displaced, and he attempted to kick it back to its proper position, but missing the pipe, his foot was caught by the driving wheel ere he had time to withdraw it, and was crushed in such a manner that amputation at the ankle was necessary. This operation was performed, but it was afterwards discovered that the bone was not taken off high enough up, and re-amputation was performed just below the knee. Under this accumulated suffering the man is now lying in rather a critical condition, at his residence at Conemaugh station.

A little son of Mr. D. Bolton had his arm badly broken last week by a fall. The boy had attempted to crawl from the window of an unfinished house on Washington street to the projection over the store front, about three feet below, and missing his footing he fell to the pavement, breaking his arm near the elbow. Although a very severe fracture the boy is getting along finely.

An employee at the Mechanical Works, named Robert Finley, met with an accident on Thursday which might have resulted fatally. He was engaged in ripping a piece of door casing on a circular saw, and after pushing it through it was caught by the saw and thrown back with great force, striking Mr F. in the breast and incapacitating him from work for several days.

A man was last week arrested in Cambria borough for alleged burglarious entrance into the house of a resident of that place. He was held in the sum of $500 to answer the charge.

A man named Gallaher was sent up on Saturday, in default of bail, for stealing a hat.

Mr. Dale, whom it will be recollected was accidently thrown from a train a few weeks ago, convalesced sufficiently to be able to take his departure for his home in New York last week. Prior to leaving he presented Capt. Row, the popular landlord of the Scott House, with a valuable gold headed cane, as a testimonial of his gratitude for the kind treatment he had received at the hands of that gentleman. The head of the cane bears the inscription, "To Capt. A. Row, from T. N. Dale, July 21, 1867," being the date at which the accident occurred.

Capt. Jas. H. Gageby, U. S. A., left New York on the 10th of last month, with 200 recruits, for San Francisco. Jim is a Johnstown boy, and has by meritorious conduct gradually worked himself from the ranks to his present position.

J. H. Lenhart, more familiarly known as "Dad," has been promoted from the ranks to the position of Sergeant in the regular army. Sergeant H. is at present on detailed duty at Governor's Island, N. Y.

The Kick. B. B. Club went on a pilgrimage last week for the purpose of playing the "Star" club of Altoona and the "Juniata" of Hollidaysburg. The game with the Stars stood on the 8th inning 71 for Kicks and 25 for Stars. The Stars concluded they couldn't shine, and had to yield the bat. The Juniata played the Kicks on the following day, the score standing on the 9th inning: Kick 34, Juniata 60. The previous week our Independent, Jr., went to Hollidaysburg to play with the Juniata, Jr. The Ind. Jrs., were beaten 19 scores. A match game will be played on Friday between the Irons and Kicks.

I had the pleasure of greeting quite a number of your citizens in our town last week. Among the number I make particular mention of Messrs. Blair, Zahm, Oatman and "Daniel"—all of them belonging to class A.

D. F. Kenly is with us on a brief visit, accompanied by his lady. Dave looks as if Chicago agreed with him, and his many friends here will be glad to know that he is succeeding well in business. SKU BAL.

OUR BOOK TABLE.—We have before us "Beyond the Mississippi," by Albert D. Richardson, of the corps of the New York Tribune. It is written with a republican leaning, but is not as rabid as many productions of that character. Its author speaks from personal knowledge, having travelled all through the country whereof he writes. His style is graphic and agreeable, and the volume contains a vast fund of useful information of that portion of our country which is to be the future governing power. It contains 572 pages, and is embellished by over 200 engravings. It is sold only by subscription, and the people of Cambria county will be waited upon by an agent within a few days.

"A Sketch of Beula and its Suburbs, with a slight account of Ebensburg and Cambria county; to which is added a view of the Wealth of Nations. By Cormac M'Sanuel, F. F. J., author of sundry papers about letters and words." This pamphlet, which, like an inverted pollywog, has the thinnest end of the title foremost, should be in the hands of every capitalist. It is ironical in style, urging government to take care of the rich that the rich may take care of the poor.

DOING IT HANDSOMELY.—Our generous friends, Messrs. Harshberger & Co., must thrive in the world, as they are not forgetful of the printer. The other day we were the recipient of a very handsome little box by Express, and as we could not divine where a present could come from, we feared that it might be an "infernal machine" to kill us off, to prevent us from going to Congress some day. Judge of our pleasant surprise when we found, safely imbedded in saw dust, a pair of nice black bottles, labelled in the finest style. But "appearances are often deceitful," so we "inquired within," and found the one to contain a liqueur that the gods of old would have delighted to quaff—"Angelica," or the nectar of angels; the other composed of "sterner stuff," being the highest brand of California brandy—for medical purposes. After this, we need scarcely inform our country friends what Johnstown Drug Store to call in if they want a good and pure article for their money. By conning the advertisement of D. W. Harsberger & Co., in another column, they will find the place, and we advise them to "go in."

A NEW ISSUE.—We desire to see the liquor traffic placed under proper restrictions, but must admit that the following resolve, being the first one adopted by the Cambria County Temperance Society, sounds a little queer to us. It commences thus:

Resolved, That, as there is no great question of public interest at stake at this hour before the national mind (except the Christian religion) equal in magnitude and importance to that of the consummation of the temperance reform, etc.

Now, it is entirely news to us that the Christian religion is "at stake" before the "national mind." We thought that if there was any subject upon which our people were agreed, it was the truths of the Christian religion. Can any of our temperance friends inform us when this question was put at stake?

A SPLENDID MONUMENT.—There has recently been erected in the Catholic cemetery at this place, in memory of the deceased members of the Noon family, one of the most imposing and elaborate monuments within the limits of Cambria county, and one that will compare favorably in design and execution with any similar work of art in the country. The monument is some fourteen feet from base to pinnacle, and is surmounted by a beautiful cross, encircled with a wreath of flowers in bas relief, exquisite in conception and unsurpassed in workmanship. The monument is the handiwork of Mr. John Parke, of Johnstown, and stamps him as an artizan of fine taste and high mechanical talent.

GAY SPORT.—A "Muffin" match game of base ball will be played this (Thursday) afternoon between two picked nines. Total ignorance of the rules of the game is the only accomplishment required on part of the players. Shitable prizes are to be awarded the best and worst players. The occasion promises to be one replete with fun—second only to a greased pig race.

A CHANCE FOR AN INVESTMENT.—M. J. Smith offers for sale his well known hotel property at Gallitzin, this county, besides a lot of ground and sixteen acres of land in the same locality. The property is eligibly located in a prosperous neighborhood, and will be sold on fair terms.

APPROACHING.—The time for the removal of Mills & Davis to their new store room is coming on apace, and the clearing out sale at greatly reduced prices at their present establishment should induce every person to "pitch in" while the chance to save money is so temptingly offered.

CITYWARDS.—Harry Shoemaker designs going to the city on Monday for the purpose of laying in his fall stock of new goods, and calls on all persons indebted to the firm to pay up immediately. Give Harry a helping hand, and then look out for his new stock.

REMEMBER that the improvements now in progress at C. T. Roberts' watch and jewelry emporium do not prevent him from attending to the wants of his customers. Fail not to give Cham a call if in quest of anything in his line.

DON'T FORGET.—When on a shopping excursion for the purchase of dry goods, groceries, etc., don't forget that J. M. Thompson keeps a general assortment at his store on High street, and sells at as reasonable figures as any other dealer in the county.

THE MILLERITES are again excited in regard to the expected dissolution of sublunary things, and expect to "go up" about the first of October. In the meantime there is no "go up" in prices at the cheap cash store of V. S. Barker, on Main street.

ANNOUNCEMENT.—To the Citizens of Cambria County: I offer myself as an Independent candidate for JURY COMMISSIONER at the approaching election. JOHN PORTER.
Susquehanna Tp., August 8, 1867.

Mr. Pepper and the Milesian.

Mr. Pepper is a very shrewd lawyer. In examining a witness he exhibits a tact that generally enables him to secure a triumph for truth. He once in a while, however, meets with a queer customer. Such a one turned up on Tuesday last. A Mr. Doyle was complained of for keeping an improper house. The complainant engaged Mr. Pepper to manage the case. The first witness who testified was Cornelius O'Neil. We give his examination:

"Do you know the defendant, Doyle?"

"Divil the man better."

"What kind of a house does he keep?"

"Brick house."

"I don't mean that. What are its peculiarities?"

"Two stories, with a back kitchen, which joins onto Sheridan's fence."

"You still misunderstand me. I wish to know the reputation of his house—is it good or bad?"

"Bad intirely."

Mr. Pepper called the attention of the Court to this answer, and desired the Justice to make a note. The Justice did so.

"What do you mean, Mr. O'Neil, when you say the reputation of the house is bad?"

"That it has the divil's own chimney, and a roof that lakes like a sieve."

"You still misunderstand me, Mr. O'Neil. Let me try again. What kind of people visit that house?"

"Men and women, principally. At least that's the only kind I ever met there."

"Well, what kind of women are they?"

"Female women, as near as I could judge."

"Well, what do you know of their characters?"

"Only one of them has got the article."

"The Court will please note that only one of the females has got a character.—And who is that woman?"

"A young lady by the name of McShane."

"She, you think, has a character?"

"Think? I know it. I saw it on Monday."

"Saw what?"

"Her character. It was written by Mr. Davis, the gentleman she has lived with four years coming next Tuesday fortnight."

"You still persist in misunderstanding me. Let me try once more. Have you ever seen women of the town at Doyle's?"

"No, sir, not of the town, but a divil av a raft from the country."

"By women of the town, Mr. O'Neil, I mean common women—prostitutes."

"What is that?"

"Prostitutes—have you ever seen prostitutes drunk and dancing at Doyle's?"

"Ah! musha, listen to that; an' is it the likes o' Doyle that would allow prostitutes to misuse his shop? By the powers of Cromwell, if his boy Mick was here but he'd twist your nose till you could use it for a gimblet. Prostitute! Go way wid ye, you blackguard—to say that of a dacint man—will you. If it wer'nt for molesting the Coort I'd peel my coat and make a flounder of you in less time than it would take a jackass to nip a thistle."

Here Mr. O'Neil became so excited that Mr. Pepper told him that he could stand aside and make room for the next witness. The cast resulted in a verdict of acquittal.

A GENTLEMAN visiting the family of a worthy deacon in a neighboring town, had been showing the children, one evening, a beautiful musical box, after which he wound up and put the instrument in his pocket. At the hour of retiring for the night, the visitor was called upon for a prayer, and having got upon his knees, was in the midst of what promised to be a somewhat prolonged petition, when suddenly in consequence of a changed of position on the part of the suppliant, the musical box started gayly off with the tune, "Take your time, Miss Lucy!" To say that the prayer was brought to a rather abrubt termination, and that even the worthy deacon rose from his knees all but convulsed with laughter, is drawing the effect of the incident quite mildly.

MEDICAL PREPARATIONS.

POLAND'S
Magic Bilious Powders

This Preparation is the discovery of Rev. J. W. Poland, formerly Pastor of the Methodist Church in Goffstown, N. H., a man dearly beloved by the whole denomination throughout the land. He was obliged to leave the pulpit and study medicine to save his own life, and his MAGIC POWDERS are the most wonderful discoveries of modern times. It is the GREAT LIVER AND BILIOUS REMEDY, which completely sweeps in the shade all other discoveries to date, and it affords him much gratification that they receive the unanimous approbation of all who have tested them. The Magic Powders are a POSITIVE CURE for LIVER COMPLAINT in its most aggravated form, and an immediate corrector of BILIOUS DERANGEMENTS. For Headache, Constipation, Pimples, Sallow Skin, Drowsiness, Dizziness, Palpitation, Heartburn, and a most sure

Cure and Preventative of Fever &

(We advise all who are troubled with that fearful malady to always keep the Powders on hand ready for immediate use.)

Here are a few important particulars: 1st. They are the great specific for Liver Affections. 2d. They are the only remedies that will cure Liver Complaint. 3d. They are the only known remedy that will cure Constipation. 4th. They are so thorough in their operation that a single package will be all that the majority of persons using them will require to effect a cure. They are a mild and pleasant yet the most effectual cathartic known. 6th. They are the cheapest and best medicine on earth, as they can be sent by mail to any part of the globe for the price, 50 cents.

Circulars, containing certificates of cures, attestation, etc., sent to any part of the world free of charge. ☞ Sold by all Druggists, or sent by mail on application to

COE'S DYSPEPSIA CURE.

This great remedy for all DISEASES OF THE STOMACH is the discovery and inventor of Coe's valuable Cough Balsam, while experimenting for his own benefit. He cured Cramp in the Stomach for which he had before yielded to nothing but death.

The almost daily testimony from all parts of the country encourage us to say there is no disease caused by a disordered stomach it will not speedily cure. Physicians endorse and use it. Ministers add testimony of its efficacy; and from all parts we receive tidings of cures performed.

Dyspepsia it is sure to cure. Sick Headache, one dose will cure. Sick Headache cured in hundreds of cases. Headache, Dizziness it stops in thirty minutes. Acidity of the Stomach it corrects at once. Nausea of the Food it stops immediately. Pain after Eating one dose will remove. Bilious Morbus rapidly yields to a few doses. Offensive Breath will be changed with half a bottle.

IT IS PERFECTLY HARMLESS. Its unprecedented success is owing to the fact that it cures by assisting Nature to assert her sway in the system.

Nearly every dealer in the United States sells it at ONE DOLLAR PER BOTTLE.
